

TORNADO HITS WEST: 23 DEAD

MILITARY REIGN AT PEN WILL CONTINUE TO CONTROL PRISON

Troops Remain At Least
Thirty Days; Remov-
als Made

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—Military rule of Ohio State Penitentiary will continue indefinitely—possibly for thirty days.

The old prison, wrecked by fire and by the hands of mutinous convicts, will be gradually repaired, and when the cells are again ready for occupancy all of the 3,900 prisoners will be locked up. They are now housed in a stockade, hastily erected by the troops, and in various buildings. From time to time the overcrowded condition of the penitentiary will be relieved and, slowly but surely, normalcy will be restored.

Whether Warden Preston Thomas will lose his job, which he has held for seventeen years, still was problematical today but there were unmistakable indications that he would not. The veteran warden himself insists he will not quit under fire and the clamoring of convicts for his removal has died down to a whisper. Even the warden's political enemies have ceased firing.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper was expected to receive today or tomorrow the report and recommendations of the special board of inquiry he appointed to investigate the cause and fix the responsibility of the fire tragedy on the night of April 21 when 326 convicts, trapped in their locked cells, were burned to death or suffocated.

Colonel Robert Haubrich of the Ohio National Guard, in command of the military occupation of the prison, said today that "all is quiet on the prison front." He saw no likelihood of further rebellion. The once "passively resisting" convicts are no longer resisting. They are licked.

Barring a small blaze in one of the tents in the barbed wire stockade, there hasn't been anything remotely suggesting excitement in the prison in the last twenty-four hours. Last night a cigarette discarded by one of the convicts set fire to one of the tents but the blaze was quickly extinguished by National Guardsmen.

The interior of the bleak battle rears with the steady tramp of khaki-clad troops, muskets slung over their shoulders. The once rebellious convicts realize that tear gas bombs and hand grenades are within easy access of the soldiers. From the prison walls and other strategic points the noses of machine guns are pointed at them. The regular prison guards, in their blue uniforms and brass buttons, are still around but the ones who are running things are the boys in khaki. A false move on the part of any convict invites slugs of lead.

Even the most "hard boiled" of the prisoners realize the jig is up. All talk of refusing to work has ceased. Colonel Haubrich already has put 1,000 of the convicts to work and he is rapidly finding jobs for the others. It is the "tough babies" who are finding the going rather rough, after their reign of terror. They are shown no quarter by the military.

Debris in the wrecked A, B, C and D cell blocks in "white city" has been cleaned up and rehabilitation of this section of the prison has begun. Expert locksmiths are repairing broken cell doors. Doors that were ripped off their hinges are being replaced. New concrete, fire proof roofs are to be constructed over the various cell blocks and prison dormitories.

Warden Thomas, in his office in the administration building was busy arranging the transfer of prisoners to various other jails in Ohio to relieve some of the congestion at the penitentiary here. Two hundred more convicts will shortly be removed to the state reformatory at Mansfield. Several hundred already have been sent to the prison farm at London, O. The warden's efficient daughter, Amanda, who, incidentally, carries a snub-nosed .35 calibre revolver around with her, is constantly at her father's side, helping him in every way she can.

The tension that has existed at the penitentiary for days has lifted. The prison guards, who have been under a terrific strain, have caught up on their sleep and are themselves again. The "deadline," mapped out by the troops to keep the public from within blocks of the prison, has been abolished. Some of the two scores or more out-of-town newspaper men have been recalled. The others are playing pinch and "watchfully waiting." Across the street from the main prison gate khaki clad soldiers rest on their arms in front of their barracks. Some do not agree with him but Colonel Haubrich says "the war is over."

MERGER OPPONENTS CONTINUE FIGHT TO RECONSIDER MOVE

Take Depositions To Support Charges Of "Fraud"

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 2.—Forces opposing the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation again brought their legal weapons to this metropolis of "steel valley" today to resume the taking of depositions from officials and stockholders of the Youngstown concern.

Attorneys for Cyrus S. Eaton, generalissimo of the anti-merger forces, are endeavoring to gather proof of a charge of "constructive fraud," in connection with the steel merger, approval of which was voted at a meeting of Sheet and Tube stockholders last April 16. They are also attempting to learn from officials of the Youngstown company how much stock was purchased to put the merger across.

The battle scenes of the war to prevent the consummation of the merger have shifted from day to day between Youngstown and Cleveland. Samuel E. Buel, Pickands, Mather and Company partner, testified in Cleveland yesterday that Pickands, Mather had purchased 60,000 shares of Sheet and Tube stock, costing approximately $9,000,000.

Officers at the post said that Cobb might have been forced down in some remote section where it was impossible to obtain a telephone.

Miss MaGee was given the award on her muskrat pelt entry which she submitted in a nation-wide contest which was conducted by the magazine.

MAY DAY OBSERVED QUIETLY; PARADES BRING FEW ARRESTS

Fifty Held In New York; Europe Has Few Disorders

NEW YORK, May 2.—May Day was quietly observed throughout the United States, with minor clashes but no outbreak of consequence, International News Service dispatches showed today.

In New York fifty arrests were made, most of the charges covering distribution of Communist handbills. More than 18,000 policemen were used to keep order here. Arrests for disorderly conduct and distribution of Communist literature and handbills were made in Elizabeth, N. J., Philadelphia, Oakland, Calif., and Stamford and New Britain, Conn.

In Oakland several Communist parades were beaten in a skirmish with police.

LONDON, May 2.—May Day had come and gone today with little in its European wake but memories of celebrations and parades of generally quiet demonstrations by Communists and Socialists.

There were a few disturbances of a minor nature reported. Police protection was given Communists for their meeting at Hyde Park, London, and except for an outbreak by a few hoodlums the day passed uneventfully.

GRAF CHARTERED FOR PLEASURE TRIP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, May 2.—The giant German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was converted into a private "air yacht" for the first time today.

A Swiss business man, reputed to be a multi-millionaire, chartered the airship for a long journey over the face of Europe. He kept his identity a strict secret.

Under the command of Captain Von Schiller, the Graf took the air at 8:10 a. m. (Eastern Daylight time) for its private cruise. Aboard the airship were thirty-five guests of the Swiss millionaire who had accepted his lavish invitation to participate in the first dirigible joy-ride in history.

Husband Sought As Woman Wounded; Hold-Up Probed

CLEVELAND, May 2.—Guns cracked in at least four scattered sections of Cleveland last night and early today, sending three persons to hospitals with wounds and keeping police busy with investigations.

A pretty young blonde woman, who said she was Mrs. Anna Stoecker, 25, was found critically wounded with a bullet shot in her chest by police who broke into an apartment here early today. The woman declared she had been examining a revolver when it discharged. Police, however, sought the woman's husband, who disappeared shortly after the shooting, according to neighbors.

Louise Curry, 14-year-old high school boy, was shot in the knee last night when he pulled a revolver from his pocket while fleeing from a policeman, who had been "tipped" the boy was carrying a weapon. The boy, who was treated at St. Luke's Hospital and was later released to his parents, told police he bought the revolver from another boy several days ago. The weapon was unloaded.

Shots fired from a twelve-gauge shotgun, in what was said to be the culmination of a quarrel between neighbors, sent police to the home of James Gambino, 44, last night. Gambino was found wounded in the face and hip. Witnesses declared that a next-door neighbor, who has long nursed a grudge against Gambino, deliberately walked to his front porch and fired at his enemy while he sat with his wife and daughter. Neither the wife nor the daughter was injured.

A fourth shooting resulted when two armed men held up Walter Jamison and Catherine Lock, early today while they were sitting in a parked automobile. The holdup men seized a purse and wrist watch belonging to Miss Lock. As they fled, Jamison ran into a nearby house, borrowed a revolver, and fired several shots at the fleeing pair. Neither was believed to have been hit.

OHIO PRISON IS REEKING WITH HATRED SAYS PRISONERS' AID

Dr. E. E. Dudding

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, May 2.—In his first revelation of horror at the burning alive of more than 300 convicts during the recent Ohio state prison fire, President Earl E. Dudding, of the National Prisoners' Relief Society, admits that he spoke hastily when he denounced the Columbus institution as the worst penitentiary in the country.

"Missouri's is fully as bad," he told me, calmly reviewing American prison conditions, a little later.

"San Quentin and Folsom are not much, if any better. The Color-

The Country's Worst

ANTI-NANKING LEADERS PLAN NEW GOVERNMENT FOR CHINA

PEKING, May 2.—Complete preparations have been made for an important meeting here of anti-Nanking Kuomintang leaders for the purpose of establishing a new Chinese government to supersede the Nationalist regime of President Chiang Kai-shek. It was learned today.

A spokesman for General Yen-Hsi-Shan, governor of Shansi province and one of the strongest opponents of Chiang's government, told international news service that invitations already had been issued to all prominent anti-Nanking leaders to attend the conference.

Decision already has been reached to cease the northern salt customs remissions to the Nanking government, with the exception of that proportion needed to meet foreign debts.

The northerners, according to this spokesman, have the solid backing of fourteen provinces against four for the Nanking government.

General Yen-Hsi-Shan at present is conferring with Marshal Feng Yuhsiang in Honan regarding the situation, and "important developments are imminent," the spokesman declared.

The Kuomintang leaders blame President Chiang Kai-shek for his alleged failure to protect foreign missionaries properly. The recent series of kidnappings are being used as political capital by the northern leaders.

Maximum sentence for second-degree murder is eighteen years but a second charge of killing Cyrus Bachman, also of near Lebanon, faces Slacco.

The two were fatally shot April 6 when they accompanied Miss Elizabeth Little, who said she had married Slacco and that he was the father of her young child, to Slacco's home here after she had received a message Slacco had been shot and her baby had been hurt.

Slacco testified he shot in self-defense, claiming Kilmfer attacked him when he admitted them to the house. Defense attorneys told the jury Slacco accused the men of persuading Miss Little to leave him and that he feared they had returned to get possession of his child whom Miss Little had left in his care.

MISSING PLANE IS SAFE AT AIR DEPOT

AIR DEPOT, Middletown, Pa., May 2.—A cabin Sikorsky plane, enroute from Bridgeport, Conn., to Butler, Pa., was ready to take off here today, after spending the night at the field here.

The plane, piloted by George Meiser and including Major J. E. Moessel, of Bridgeport among its three passengers, landed here last evening at 5:30. It had been reported today that the plane was missing and that it might have been the one two cranberry workers reported as crashing near Camden, N. J.

CONVICTED BY JURY OF MURDER CHARGE; DEMANDS NEW TRIAL

Accused Is Facing Second Charge Of Murder Also

BALTIMORE, May 2.—Vincent Slacco, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., sat in his jail cell today while his attorneys prepared their petition for a new trial in his conviction by a jury early today of second-degree murder of Robert Kilmfer, Lebanon, Pa. The jury deliberated four hours and fifty minutes.

Maximum sentence for second-degree murder is eighteen years but a second charge of killing Cyrus Bachman, also of near Lebanon, faces Slacco.

The two were fatally shot April 6 when they accompanied Miss Elizabeth Little, who said she had married Slacco and that he was the father of her young child, to Slacco's home here after she had received a message Slacco had been shot and her baby had been hurt.

EIGHT STATES SWEEP AS TWISTER LEAVES DEATHS AND DAMAGE

Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska And Iowa Suffer
Worst; Towns Leveled By Wind; Red
Cross Rushes Help

By International News Service

Twenty-three persons were reported killed today as middle and northwestern states took toll of damage done by sporadic tornadoes which struck eight different states last night and early today.

In addition to these deaths six persons are reported missing and are believed dead. Scores of persons are injured.

Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa were the states which suffered the worst.

Seven persons were killed in Missouri and one was killed in Kansas by the storm. Norborne, Mo., was the town hardest hit with four persons killed and at least fifteen injured. Three persons were killed at Hardin, Mo., by the twister.

A tornado which whipped across Nebraska killed five at Tekamah. The same storm practically destroyed the town of Pender, Neb., leveling most of the buildings in the village.

Two men were killed, several persons were injured, and damage estimated at $150,000 was wrought in the Chicago area.

Three were drowned at Lake City, Minn., when a cloud-burst flooded a stalled automobile. Two women died when their automobile skidded into a ditch at Hibbing, Minn.

A boy was killed at Westby, Wis., by a tornado. One man was killed at Rockford, Ill., when a falling tree crushed his automobile. Lightning struck and killed a farm hand at Lawton, N. D.

RELIEF IS SENT

Relief workers from the American Red Cross headquarters at St. Louis, Mo., were ordered into the storm-swept areas in Nebraska, Kansas and western Missouri to care for the injured and homeless.

The death toll by states:

Nebraska 5.
Missouri 5.
Kansas 1.
Wisconsin 1.
Illinois 1.
North Dakota 1.

SIoux CITY, Ia., May 2.—Rescue crews bearing food, clothing and medical aid were being rushed into the tornado-stricken Missouri Valley today where a series of twisters last night killed seven persons, according to reports. Injured scores and did property damage which may mount into millions of dollars.

Communities in four states—Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri—were crushed by the tornadoes which descended with little warning shortly after 7 o'clock last night.

At Tekamah, Neb., five persons were reported killed and several injured. Scores were made homeless there as the fierce winds crushed houses, buildings and barns.

Pender, Neb., a town of nearly 1,000 persons, was practically leveled.

The Red Cross at Omaha sent a score of nurses, hospital wagons and a dozen doctors to the stricken areas last night to care for the wounded. Additional relief was dispatched today.

Although communication lines were torn down in western Iowa the damage is believed to be slight. Salix, Ia., was struck by one small tornado which did little damage.

Although the twisters moved slowly in most instances, they tore up houses and landscape with an unusual fury. At many points the residents were warned by the slow approach and were able to find shelter in basements and storm cellars.

Only a negligible rainfall accompanied the storms, but immediate following the tornado which struck homes torrents of rain fell. On the outskirts of Sioux City, more than an inch of rain descended, it was estimated.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 2.—Eight dead, seven in Missouri, and one in Kansas, was the toll of tornado which swept through the states. Next after it comes Minnesota's Nebraska's is good.

"New York's prisons, formerly very bad, have been greatly improved since the outbreaks inside their walls a few months ago.

"Federal penitentiaries, although seriously overcrowded, have gained so much in the efficiency of their management as to leave little to be desired—considering them as prisons. The improvement began in the present Supreme Justice Harlan Stone's term as U. S. attorney general. In a few days, at that time, the price of dope advanced 80 per cent in the Atlanta penitentiary. A change of that sort speaks for itself.

"Such a horror as Columbus' cell, attention upon a prison, but not many folk except ex-convicts, like myself, realize that it is only a wholesale example of what may have been going on, retail, indefinitely.

"I have been through twenty prisons in the last three months.

"In the best of the wardens were on friendly terms with the prisoners. Occasionally, in some prison, the warden would stop, as we made the rounds, to shake hands with a convict and chat with him. Good fellowship existed. And why not? Most convicts are just average young fellows—very fine ones—some of them.

"But there was no good feeling at Columbus. That penitentiary reeked with hatred.

"Why?

Dudding's Allegations

"Well, if a tubercular prisoner dies and another man is moved into his cell and required to use the same blankets, without disinfection do you think he doesn't resent it?

"If he is underfed and knows that 20 per cent of the food brought into that prison is sneaked out by the guards for their families, does he like it?

"If he is well aware that charges are preferred against his warden at every session of the legislature, but they are always pigeon-holed and he is equally aware that the prison management's personnel contributes regularly and handsomely to every state campaign fund, is he suspicious?

"Overcrowding responsible for the loss of life at Columbus?

"Overcrowding had nothing to do with it.

"In the first place, some hundreds of the men who are spoken of as inside prison walls when the fire alarm was sounded were outside in the prison farm.

As Dudding Reasons

"Besides, in every penitentiary there are 300 or 500 dependables who would not attempt a break if they were invited.

"Convicts, rightly handled, are not so hard to manage.

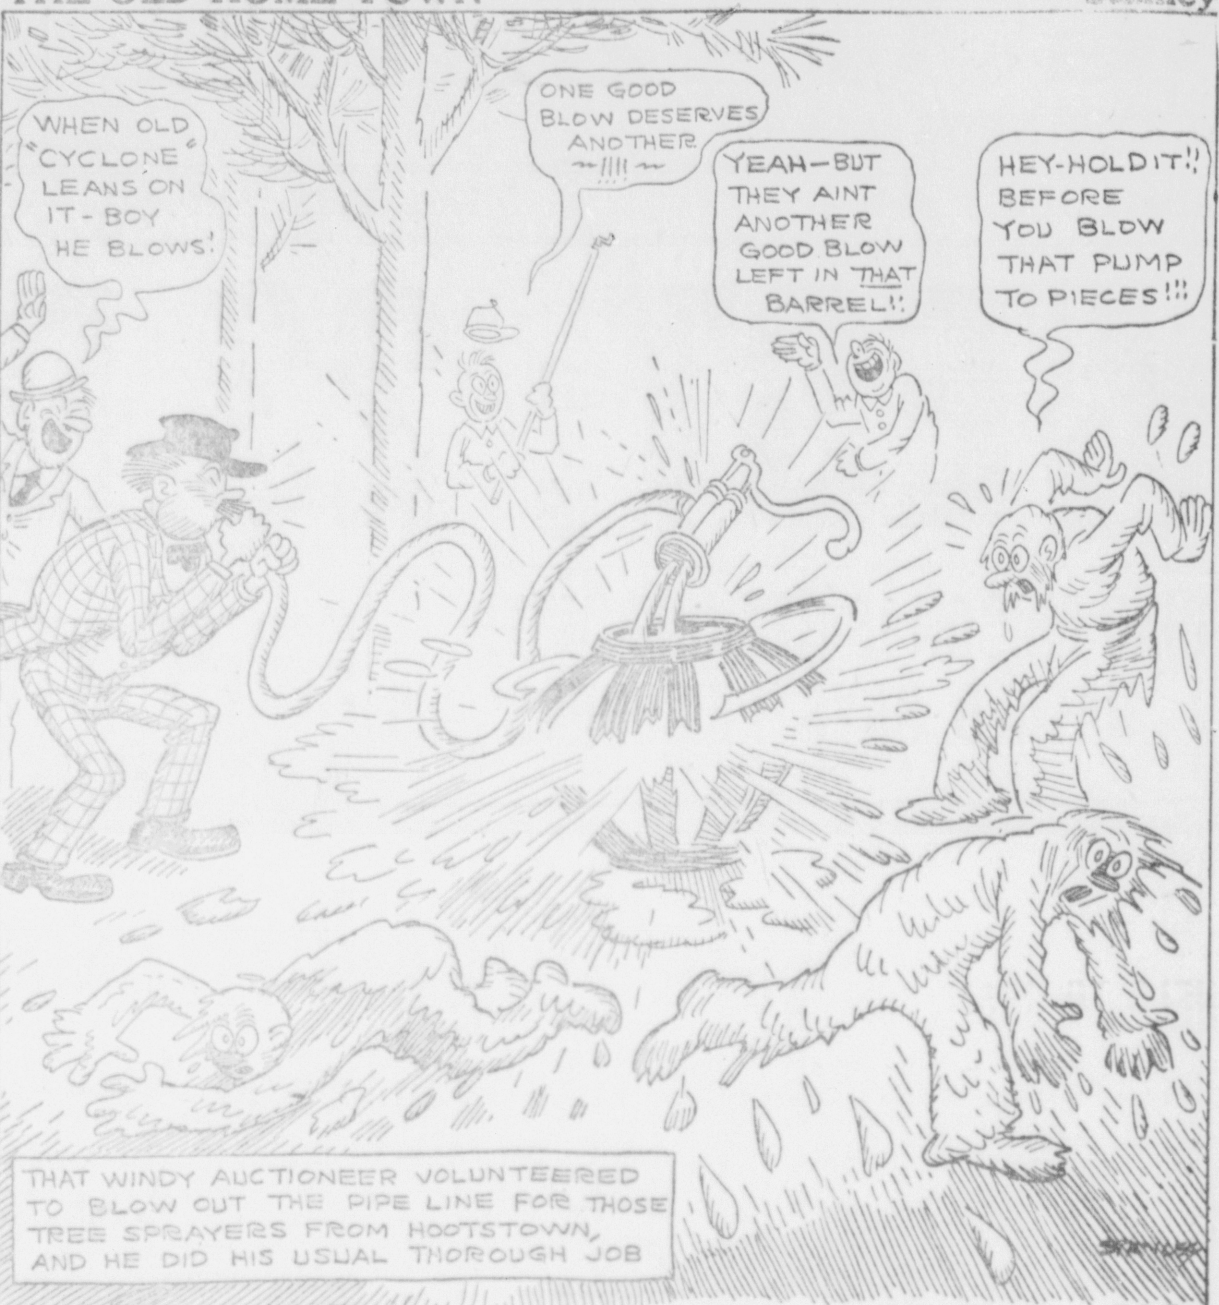

"And the desperadoes?—whom the Columbus guards were so hesitant to release that they let them die in their cells. Those cells were receiving cells. Of the men who perished in them at least half were first offenders. I know one. He had been in the Columbus prison just two hours—and had but a year to serve. His name was Holland.

"Six resolute, competent guards could have prevented an escape from Columbus without a life lost—if the discipline had been good, and a trusted warden had been on the scene; not outside the walls, with a shotgun.

"A warden's place is inside his prison in an emergency.

"I ran the switchboard in the West Virginia penitentiary. The warden never left his office without telling me where I could reach him. My orders were—first to call to him, on the instant of a fire alarm; then the police at Mounts-

Spring Comes to Gotham, But Not in Nature's Garb

By RUBY WEIL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 30.—"I love an early spring, don't you, Mrs. McCarthy?" Not a tree, not a blade of grass, not a bird in the picture as Mrs. McCarthy's companion puts the question. Only the fire escapes of tenements and high up, instead of a bird, a suit of long underwear on a washline.

Spring comes to the city casually, almost furtively, slipping into the shop windows, into the newspaper columns, into the treeless streets.

By These Signs!

The "signs of spring"—There are many for the city dweller, but nature's own symbols are not among them. The seasonal note in newspaper advertising, suggesting spring dresses for apartment dwellers and their habitat; the substitution of gauzy underwear for long woolens in the unblushing pushcart markets; the appearance of fresh asparagus and strawberries on menus in moderate-priced restaurants; the removal of the heated signs from taxis which sometimes actually were heated.

Thus artificially does spring announce itself to the city. One bright morning the family discovers that the radiator is cold but the apartment warm. Fur coats go into storage and spring clothes to cleaners.

The newspapers have long since reported the first robin. But how many in the city are aware of the first or the last robin?

New Harbingers

The shop windows no longer are reliable harbingers of spring, since steam heat has upset the seasons and travel has put bathing suits into smart Fifth Avenue windows in January. No one must turn to other signs.

The hurdy-gurdy man, relic of more leisurely times, grinds away hour by hour. The crowds around the yawning holes where new buildings will grow—the city's substitute for nature's budding of flowers—become larger and stay longer.

On the lower East Side, in Greenwich Village, in the Bronx, in all the more populous and less dignified sections, children extend their play hours into the warm evenings. Roller skates dodge be-

In the theaters the more serious shows begin to end their runs, to be replaced by light comedies and musical shows, except those successes which may last out the Summer in spite of depth of plot or idea.

"Where're y' goin' fer yer vacation?" Office boys and shop girls discuss the annually important choice between mountain camps and seaside hotels.

The circus sets up its rings—in doors.

Spring has come to the city.

Norborne, Mo., was the hardest hit by the twister, with four persons killed and at least fifteen injured, some seriously. The south and west portions of the town are in ruins.

Others killed were Charles Storms, 46, and Ruby Shirley, 10. Storms' wife and five children were injured as were seven other members of the Shirley family.

Sweeping northward out of Norborne, the twister played havoc with farm buildings. A check today, however, failed to show any casualties in the rural districts.

Three persons were killed at Hardin, Mo., a village about eight miles from Richmond, when the cyclone struck that community. Three others were reported injured.

At Kickapoo, Kans., Lawrence Kern was killed when the cyclone picked him up and hurled him through the air for more than a mile. His body was found in a field that distance from his home. Four members of his family were injured.

The twister originated near Dunavant, Kas., and traveled east and northeast across the state line into Missouri.

It wreaked damage on all buildings in its path but no other casualties had been reported to day.

The larger cities of the territory were visited by abnormal rain and winds from Leavenworth, Kas., and St. Joseph, Mo., experiencing storms that crippled wire and transportation facilities.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Two deaths, injury to several persons and damage estimated at more than $150,000 stood today as the results in this city and vicinity of last night's freak storm.

The dead:

Michael Keaty, 35, a lineman, blown against a high tension wire while repairing an insulator on a telephone pole which had been struck by lightning.

Richard Shannon, of Channel Lake, died in the Lake County General Hospital of injuries received when his cottage was collapsed by the wind.

ROCKFORD, Ill., May 2.—Lester Withrow was dead here today and Herman Anderson was believed dying as the result of a tornado which swept Winnebago County here last night. Two huge trees uprooted by the storm crushed the automobile in which they were riding.

At Westby, Wis., Archer Funk, 10, was killed and two other persons injured when a tornado struck here last night. Property damage at Westby was estimated at $75,000.

—for this lowest-priced gas refrigerator

WE WERE astounded that the manufacturers could produce this complete refrigerator with the wonderful Electrolux freezing unit at this low price. The cabinet construction and appearance are of the usual high standard in gleaming white—with beautiful chromium hardware.

Electrolux is the only automatic refrigerator that is absolutely silent, not only when you buy it, but forever after. It has nothing to make sound—no machinery, no moving parts at all. There is no stopping and starting. The cold is created by means of a tiny gas flame and a mere trickle of water. The flame vaporizes the liquid refrigerant. The water trickle condenses it back into liquid form. Just as simple as that.

It is as fool-proof as can be. It never needs your attention. The refrigerant is welded forever inside a rigid one-piece unit. It never needs renewal. Even the tiny flame is safeguarded night and day by an automatic shutoff. Should the flame ever go out, by any chance, the gas will not flow until you light it again.

Lowest operating cost

And the beauty of it is that this refrigerator costs less to operate than any other kind of refrigeration. Even ice probably costs you twice as much as the operating cost of Electrolux. A few pennies a day is the usual cost of an Electrolux, and the Brooklyne Model has the lowest operating cost of any Electrolux model. The saving in ice bills alone, without considering the advantages of perfect food preservation, makes the owning of this Electrolux a real economy.

See this wonderful refrigerator at our display room. Liberal purchase terms. A small deposit and a little payment each month puts this refrigerator in your kitchen.

QUICK FACTS!

9. Tested and endorsed by national authorities.

The Brooklyne Model Electrolux—built to conserve floor space—Shelf area 4 1/2 sq. ft. A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR KILLING MULE HELD IN BURGLARY PROBE

Two 20-year-old youths giving their names as Harold and Everett McVey, brothers, arrested after the roadster in which they were riding struck and killed a mule on the Springfield Pike near the Clark County line about 3 a. m. Friday, are being held at Police Headquarters on suspicion they may have been implicated in a series of robberies in Xenia which occurred Thursday night.

The youths were picked up by Springfield authorities and were returned to Xenia Friday morning by Police Chief O. H. Cornwell and Patrolman Fred Jones.

Police announced the brothers were driving an auto bearing improper license plates toward Springfield when the machine struck one of two mules belonging to Clarence Gram, farmer, living at the junction of the Jackson Road and Springfield Pike, two miles north of Yellow Springs.

The mules had strayed from a pasture onto the highway. After striking one animal and killing it instantly, the auto, its front caved in by the impact, careened along the road for 150 feet and upset in a ditch after colliding with a pole. The youthful occupants were cut and bruised.

Police were trying Friday to link the youths with the robbery of a combined grocery and filling station operated by John Ringer on Cincinnati Ave., attempted burglary of the Greene County Lumber Co. offices on N. Detroit St., and robbery of the Roberts garage on N. Detroit St.

Thieves entered the Ringer grocery by breaking the glass on the front door and turning the lock from the inside. Forty-three varieties of groceries valued at $101.46 comprised the loot. A check disclosed the burglars had evidently taken away a little bit of everything.

An attempt to crack the safe at the office of the Greene County Lumber Co., scene of a number of recent robberies, was forestalled when Patrolmen Charles Thompson and George Robinson, driving past the building in the police car, had their suspicions aroused by the fact the interior of the office was in darkness, whereas it has always been the custom to keep a light burning.

Directing the rays of a flashlight on the office, the officers noticed the glass in a window had been broken. They stopped to investigate and notified Police Headquarters from a nearby call box. However, while Patrolman Robinson drove the police car away to obtain reinforcements, it is believed the burglars, frightened away from their task, made their escape through the rear of the office, jumped in an auto parked in an alley and drove away.

Police subsequently trailed the robber's auto as far as Yellow Springs. The combination on the safe in the office had been knocked off, the plaster torn from the walls, the vault damaged considerably and the office ransacked in search of money. Papers were found scattered about the floor, which was also covered with miscellaneous tools. The tools, including a hammer, an old Ford axle and the like were later identified as having been stolen from the nearby Roberts garage, which had previously been entered through a rear window.

Fingerprints discovered in the office will be compared with those of the two youthful suspects under arrest.

The auto which the youths wrecked in the collision with the mule was equipped with license plates issued to Daniel E. Lampert, Beckel Ave., Springfield.

BANKER ENDORSED FOR POSTMASTER AT YELLOW SPRINGS

Frank L. Currey, Republican, cashier of the Miami Deposit Bank at Yellow Springs, was reported Friday to have been endorsed by United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, whose home town is Yellow Springs, for appointment as postmaster of the village for a four-year term.

C. C. Stephenson, village postmaster for the last eight years, has served two terms and because he is reported to be past the age limit of 60, it is said that he did not seek re-appointment for a third term. His second term expired last March but he has been holding over until his successor is named.

Originally there were five applicants for the postmastership, including Mr. Currey, Mrs. D. A. Brewer, former member of the village school board; T. A. Donley, former village mayor; Walter Miller, Clinton farmer and Archie Dean, now employed in Springfield.

The race narrowed down to Mr. Currey and Mrs. Brewer and it is understood that Senator Fess has endorsed the bank cashier for the post. Recommendation of the senior Ohio senator is recognized as tantamount to appointment. The endorsement is said to have been submitted to the postal department at Washington, D. C., although no actual appointment has yet been made.

The Yellow Springs post office is a second class office and serves two rural routes out of the village.

XENIAN INJURED IN PRACTICAL JOKE

As the result of a practical joke Roy Ary, W. Main St., is suffering from a badly injured left knee, which he received Tuesday evening when he was struck by an automobile driven by Albert Robinette, on W. Main St.

Robinette was driving east on

Main St., and Ary was walking across Main St. Thinking Robinette would turn into Galloway St., he kept on walking across the street. When he saw that the automobile was not going to turn he stopped but the car was too close to stop in time to avoid hitting him. The injured man is improving nicely.

BISHOP ANDERSON'S WIFE QUITS D. A. R.

BOSTON, May 2.—Failure of the D. A. R. to take a stand on the prohibition question and the "militaristic attitude" of the organization were given today as the reasons by the wife of Bishop William F. Anderson for her resignation from the organization.

Mrs. Anderson, who is a native of Cincinnati, O., tendered her resignation in the form of a written statement, copies of which were sent to national and local heads of the society.

Mrs. Anderson became the wife of the present Methodist bishop in 1887. Both are graduates of Ohio Wesleyan. She has been for many years identified with the Daughters of the American Revolution.

HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR GRAND LARCENY

Charged with grand larceny, Floyd Watson, colored, Wilberforce-Clifton Pike, was bound over to the grand jury under $300 bond by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith following a preliminary hearing Friday morning. He was released on bail.

Watson is accused of the wholesale removal of household goods valued in excess of $250 from the residence of a neighbor colored family named Levell last February 9 while the house was unoccupied for several days. Most of the stolen property was recovered when a search was made of Watson's home but the colored man explained that he had purchased the furniture and other goods from another man who died about seven weeks ago.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

UNSELFISH LIVING—All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient; all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not. Let no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth.—1 Cor. 10:23, 24.

SPECIAL HALF-DOLLARS

The proponents of a special half-dollar to commemorate the Gadsden purchase need not feel that Mr. Hoover's veto of the bill authorizing the minting of such a coin is discriminatory. True, at least fifteen such commemorative pieces have been minted in the last decade; but last year Secretary Mellon refused the request of the Massachusetts Ray Tercegiary committee that the government mint 500,000 four-bit pieces to advertise the fact that the Codfish state is 300 years old. The reasons he advanced for this refusal and the language in which he framed them were practically identical with those used in Mr. Hoover's veto message. Coins are issued by the government for the convenience of the public in trade and commerce. Special issues tend to confuse the public and to expose the coinage of the country to counterfeiting. An end should be put to that sort of thing—and it might as well be put right now.

Gadsden's treaty with Mexico, which gave Mexico $10,000,000 and the United States 45,535 square miles of territory, was a memorable event in the history of this country. The treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo left the boundary south of the Gila river indefinite. James Gadsden, American minister to Mexico, was appointed a commissioner to negotiate with the government to which he was accredited, a new treaty, which should rectify the boundary and remove other defects from the treaty which terminated the Mexican war. The new convention was signed on December 30, 1853; and ratifications were exchanged, after the senate had severely amended the document, June 30, 1854. The territory it obtained for the United States now forms the southern ridings of Arizona and New Mexico.

An event of this magnitude is worthy of suitable commemoration; but neither it nor any of the many other memorable events in our history should be made an excuse for exposing the national coinage to confusion or counterfeiting. The first formal veto indulged in by Mr. Hoover is sound.

PRODUCES RESULTS

The Chicago crime commission and the Chicago police may or may not be keeping strictly within the letter of the statutes in planning their new campaign against the gangsters that infest their town, but they certainly are adopting a program well designed to produce results. In picking out twenty-eight "big shots," who are especially obnoxious, branding them "public enemies" and forming a hoodlum squad which is to give them undivided attention, the law enforcement agencies are driving straight to the heart of their problem.

The modern gangster is on land what a pirate is on the high seas, and the way to deal effectively with the gangster is to imitate the methods which have been used to cleanse the ocean of its robbers. Hitherto, this remedy for predatory crime has not been tried in any general way. Gangsters have been handled as though they were ordinary, even casual criminals, whereas they are nothing of the sort, but are professionals of a particularly vicious and virulent variety. When Frank J. Loesch, a member of Mr. Hoover's crime commission, demands that the Chicago police harry the gangsters without mercy, raid their disorderly houses, saloons, gambling dens and night clubs, and dog their tracks to determine their political affiliations and ferret out their financial interests, he indicates a way in which his town can rid itself of its racketeering murder-bund, and keep it free.

It is reported that boys are joining cooking classes. With the girls more and more getting their house-keeping ideas at the canned goods counter, the boys must do something in self-defense.

Perhaps if we all go back to mufflers and heavy overcoats, and buy another load of coal, we may be able to coax the warm weather to return.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHAT MUSIC CAN DO

Music can make better citizens and better neighbors. So says a New York woman engaged in social service. Says Mrs. Frances McFarland: "In the experience of New York settlement workers music is bridging the gap between children and parents who have little else in common. It is making friends of people from all parts of the world who, though they have been living next door to each other, have not even been neighbors in the real sense of the word; and it is helping to make better citizens not only of the rising generation, but of their parents."

Perhaps the kind of music will have something to do with it. The radio next door may not always make you feel more friendly or more neighborly. Music hath charms to soothe; it can also play on the nerves, not like a fiddlebow, but like a saw.

NAVY CUTS

Don't be too disappointed with the naval arms conference. Battleships and cruisers are not sunk in a day or a decade. The fact that national leaders—who make international programs—can even spend weeks talking about arms reduction and peace shows which way the thought of the world is turning. The talk that is worth while is the talk that turns the minds of men toward great ends. By conference—and by centuries—men became more civilized. Be patient.

FAKE COURAGE

There are people who live in violation of the common customs of mankind who pride themselves on the "courage" of their convictions. It may be nothing to be proud of. Some of the accepted conventions and traditions of mankind represent the best thought of the centuries. They represent the accumulated knowledge and the best experience of the race. To violate custom is not creditable in itself. It may be a sign of great weakness, not a sign of strength. Perhaps there is no general rule which can ever quite cover all cases and all conditions. But a general rule is worth looking into very carefully before it is violated.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY

The great tragedy of life goes deeper than physical welfare and comfort. The great tragedy comes into a human life when a man or woman comes down from the high levels of living and seeks happiness only in sensation, in the cheaper forms of pleasure, and in materialistic satisfactions. The pleasures of the intellect grow while other pleasures diminish into satiety and finally fade into nothing. One can shrivel into misery or grow into happiness and peace of mind. It is all a matter of choice—and of persistent cultivation.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS
WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

How was the population of the United States divided in age groups, according to the last census in 1920?

11,573,230 were under five years of age; 22,039,212 from five to 14 years; 18,707,577 from 15 to 24 years; 31,278,322 from 25 to 44 years; 17,030,165 from 45 to 64 years; 4,933,215 from 65 years and over; age unknown of 148,699.

American Zeppelins

State the number of Zeppelins now in use in the United States and the number of airports in this country which can be used by such craft?

The only rigid airship of the Zeppelin type now in use in this country is the Los Angeles, owned by the navy, the aeronautics branch of the United States department of commerce reports. The Goodyear Zeppelin corporation is now building at the Akron, O., plant, two dirigibles for the navy department. Several airports, the branch declares, have facilities for handling dirigibles, but only the Lakeland naval air station and the Akron municipal airport have hangars large enough to accommodate this type of craft.

Cost of Living

Did the cost of living in 1929 continue to decrease?

Statistics prepared by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor reveal that the cost of living was lower in 1929 and 1928 than it was in any year since 1922. The index number for the United States is based on the year 1913, and the figures for 1929 indicate that living costs were 71.4 per cent higher than the average for 1913 in December, 1929. June, 1920, represents the peak of cost of living prices when it showed an increase of 116.5 per cent.

Elias Howe

Can you please tell me who invented the sewing machine?

Elias Howe, an American machinist, who lived from 1819 to 1890, was the inventor of this machine.

Transatlantic Flyers

Do birds ever fly across the Atlantic ocean?

A few birds which have been banded, both in America and Europe have been found on opposite sides of the ocean, the United States biological survey reports. These are mostly water birds of the gull and tern families.

Astronomical Distances

Will you please tell me how far the sun is from the earth, and how long it would take to reach it?

The average distance to the sun is said to be 92,897,400 miles. A railroad train running 60 miles an hour would require 175 years to travel the distance.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK—A colorful figure visiting New York just now is James Nugent Crofton, still in his thirties, who ran a crap game in Toronto during the 1921 gold strike up to a $1,000,000 yearly income as part owner of the race track and gambling concessions at Agua Caliente, near California.

Mr. and Mrs. Crofton are stopping at the Ritz-Carlton, and it was there he told me the story about Al Jolson sitting with him at the Agua Caliente Casino when a friend passing on the way to the gambling tables said to Jolson:

"Al, you're in with me 50-50 on this game."

"I needed, and immediately forgot all about it. A half hour later, he was informed he was out $12,000."

Crofton is here to attend the race meetings and, incidentally, to try and pick up a horse with which he hopes to win the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap next March.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS

The annual convention of the Mayors of New York is soon to be held. No, not former Mayors—present ones. Oh, yes, there are others besides "Jaunty Jimmy."

Almost every community in the Greater City has one, either self-appointed, elected or born to the unofficial office.

It all started when "Chuck" Connors styled himself, years ago, "The Mayor of Chinatown."

The habit grew until today we have of the more important celebrities:

"Stitch" McCarthy, Mayor of Grand St.

Frank Dostal, Mayor of Ave. B.

Abe Fagan, Mayor of Hunt's Point.

Kardonick Phillips Mayor of Delancey St.

Johnny Leppig, Mayor of Harlem.

Joe Burger, Mayor of Ave. C.

PRISON HORRORS SEEN AS INEVITABLE UNDER SYSTEM THAT MAKES CRIMINALS TWICE AS FAST AS IT DOES PRISONS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—"Prison horrors were inevitable," said Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn, of California, "under a system which manufactures criminals considerably more than twice as fast as prisons can be built to put them in."

"Ohio's wholesale tragedy at Columbus seems like the limit of the grotesquely terrible—but who knows?"

"After the last year's series of uprisings and bloodshed, in state and federal penitentiaries alike, the country over, one must be an optimist to feel sure that nothing can outdo what already has happened."

Mrs. Kahn laid down the newspaper in which she had been reading of the warning, given months ago by President E. E. Dudding of the Prisoners' Relief society of the national capital to Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio, that conditions in the Columbus penitentiary already, at that time, were the worst in America, and of the governor's reply that the Buckeye state would look after its own penitentiary without any advice from outsiders.

"Possibly Ohio was worst," agreed the congresswoman, "but there can't have been a great deal to choose between that and most other prisons."

"With Attorney General Mitchell only recently appealing to congress not to pass laws making still more crimes until additional penitentiaries are ready to hold new criminals, the federal government's dilemma speaks for itself. The accommodations of most, if not all, of our state penitentiaries evidently are just as badly overstressed."

"Naturally," continued the California woman legislator, "existence must be well-nigh intolerable in a prison crowded far above 100 per cent beyond its capacity."

"And the discipline?—plus the beastly crowding?"

"Well, without being told anything about the Columbus penitentiary (for example) this much is obvious:

"The prisoners were forced to live under the same management which, put to the test of an emergency, allowed more than 300 of them to burn to death in their cells—whether due to their guardians' inefficiency or to their downright inhumanity in balking at the danger involved in releasing their wards."

"On either supposition, it was hardly a control which one can regard as having been, probably, very close to the ideal—even for a prison."

Is there any remedy?—at least for the overcrowding evil?

"Oh," replied Mrs. Kahn, "more paroles might help somewhat—as to the federal penitentiaries."

"For every 10 federal prisoners"

Heinie Salzman, Mayor of Essex St.

Jack Spero, Mayor of Washington St.

Nate Vloderger, Mayor of Eldridge St.

Herman Zoeller, Mayor of Forsythe St.

Tax Dick, Mayor of Allen St.

Yulmus Baumann, Mayor of Flatbush.

They are all the most popular men in their districts, and each year they meet to elect a Mayor of all the Mayors. "Stitch" McCarthy won last year at a meeting, where someone stole Mayor Fagan's hat.

eligible for parole, who apply for it, perhaps one actually is released on his good behavior. There is no reason for holding the other nine except that they lack the necessary influence to get favorable action on their applications.

"It is too much a matter of politics."

"The convict whose congressman makes a strong appeal for him wins freedom at the earliest legal moment. Another convict, just as much entitled to it stays behind the bars for lack of someone to plead his case."

"But our real trouble," said the congresswoman, "arises from laws which make felonies out of what are, at worst, only misdemeanors."

"About half our convicts in no true sense are criminals."

"If our so-called criminals, who are not criminals, never were sent to our penitentiaries, there would be ample room for the genuine ones."

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

EVERY LITTLE WRIGGLE MEANS THE BABY'S GROWING UP!

Cousin Small Water Beetle looked at her larger cousin with some pity and a little scorn. "Not know your own children! If that doesn't beat anything I ever heard!" she exclaimed. "Well, if I never did another thing to make a reputation I would be the first Great Water Beetle mother to make sure that youngsters were mine and what weren't. Why don't you anchor your cradle-board to a stem, as I do? It seems to me that would be a sensible thing! Certainly after I have gone to all the trouble of weaving a cradle and laying my eggs I want to keep in touch with my own, to watch over my nestlings lest harm shall befall them. To be sure, once the eggs hatch it is no time at all before the children become mighty independent, but it makes me feel a lot better to be on hand to give help if they need it. Even if the youngsters never call on me for aid, I love to be around to see what they do, how they behave. And it is great fun watching them grow big and strong. With the dawn of every new day they learn to do something they knew nothing about the day before. Why, cousin, I think you miss more than half the fun of being a mother! However, what you do or do not do is your own business. Which reminds me I must be about mine, for I promised Husband I would not stay away from him long. To be sure, I am very devoted to me and worries if I am out of his sight—I suppose he is afraid the despot of the pool will get me if he is not around to watch out! Sonny, what is the matter? What in the world are you getting so excited about?"

No wonder Mother Small Beetle was anxious. Her son was twisting and twirling about like a top, kicking up bubbles with his feet, snapping his wide mouth open and shut. In a second though, Mother Small Water Beetle calmed down.

"Nothing wrong!" said she. "Sonny is just getting his wind up. Every snap and little wriggle mean the baby's growing up!"

New England Boiled Dinner—Three pounds corned beef, six potatoes, one medium sized head of cabbage, six small carrots, six small parsnips. Rhine meat in cold water. Put into kettle with more than enough water to cover; bring to the boiling point and skim thoroughly. Simmer for about three hours, add more water as it boils down so as to keep plenty of broth. Remove meat from liquid and add parsnips and carrots scraped and cut in halves and cook for fifteen minutes. Cut cabbage in eighths and add with the prepared potatoes and cook thirty minutes more, or until all vegetables are done but not mushy. When done remove to covered dish to keep hot while the meat is being reheated in the broth.

Ripe Cucumber Pickle—Cut ripe cucumbers cross-wise through the center and remove seeds and peel. Cut the halves into quarters and each quarter into four strips. Let stand over night in mild salt water and in the morning cook until clear in well spiced and sweetened vinegar. If the vinegar is very strong, make brown sugar and spice to taste.

Creole Salad—One cup of any sort of left-over cold, cooked beans, one cup of diced celery, one-half cup of minced onion (green preferred), a little chopped pickle, olives, or pimento or whatever happens to be on hand. One pint of strained tomatoes, one package of lemon-flavored gelatin, juice of half lemon and seasonings. Put the tomatoes through a coarse sieve to remove seeds; then put them into a saucepan with a slice of onion, six cloves, teaspoon of sugar, salt, pepper, celery salt, paprika and a dash of cayenne. Let simmer ten minutes, remove from fire and strain again. Add a package of lemon gelatin and lemon juice and let cool. When it begins to congeal add the beans, celery and onions; mold and chill and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing and garnish with hard cooked eggs.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Don't put crackers into the bread box. They should be kept on the shelf of the cupboard where it is warm and dry.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

"Dear Doctor: Quite recently I discovered that my son's pulse beats only 48 per minute. He is 17 years old, very active and seemingly healthy. What is your opinion of this?" MRS. G.

Are you sure you know how to palpate and count the pulse beat properly, Mrs. G.? And if your boy is suffering from some illness, haven't you called a physician?

The normal pulse in the newborn and during the first year of life varies from 120 to 140 beats per minute; around the third year, it drops to 100, and around the sixth year to 90. The average number of beats for the adult male is 72 per minute, while in females it is slightly higher. But the pulse varies in different persons. The influence of temperament and certain personal idiosyncrasies may cause it to fluctuate between 60 and 80 per minute during adult life (Anders and Boston).

Even under normal conditions the pulse rate may be unusually slow in some; this is known as a congenital slow pulse. In the aged, a pulse of 60 is not uncommon. Naturally, as a result of exercise and mental strain, excitement and after a full meal, the pulse beat increases; even during extreme heat it may be more rapid.

I hope you're not one of those mothers who are always taking temperatures and pulses and keeping your child in a state of anxiety about his health? Don't do this, Mrs. G. Such a procedure lays the foundation for nervous (functional) disturbances of the mind and nervous system, which may cause trouble throughout life.

"Dear Doctor: A doctor who is not what you call a 'regular,' has told me that eating yeast will cause pernicious anemia, and that bran is harmful as it always ir-itates the stomach and intestines. Are these statements true?" MRS. K.

No, neither of these statements is true, Mrs. K.

Those who have been on a diet that has been low in the vitamin B (the anti-neuritic vitamin) are benefited by taking a small amount of yeast a day, as this is very high in the vitamin. (I don't think it is necessary to take so much as the advertisements say, even half a cake a day should be sufficient.) If you don't like yeast there is an official preparation called Vitavox, which you can obtain at all drug stores, made of malted wheat germ, which is exceedingly high in vitamin B and iron.

So far as bran's being irritating: it is irritating to some intestinal tracts, but to the majority it is simply stimulating enough, with its bulk, to produce normal bowel movement. Bran is also high in vitamin B and mineral elements and so is a good food.

But remember this: any good thing can be overdone.

We have an article on Balanced Diet which will help you check up on your diet. See column rules.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

JUST what can be done when the person you love is impervious to your charms and absolutely refuses to take your protestations of affection and offers of marriage seriously?

Or, if you are a lady, if the One and Only Man whom you are convinced is YOUR Prince Charming, passes over your charms and devotes himself to one whom you know to be UNWORTHY?

There are many ways of handling the situation, I mean, but none in which the technique is absolutely guaranteed to work.

So may I depend on the personality of the lover, so to speak. The kind of thing that would melt the heart of one person would harden another. The methods of approach that would permit the insertion of the entering wedge of affection and appreciation into one individuality, would be absolutely blunted on another.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am an old bachelor and I am in love with a widow and I have tried every way I could to win her, but I am discouraged. I tell her that I love her and I ask her to be my wife, and all she does is laugh at me and say, 'No more men for me.'"

"I room with her and I have been in her house going on two years, so I have studied this woman and she is the woman that I want. I was sick and she took good care of me, but she will not let me sit by her or touch her or kiss her. So what must I do? Please answer so you can tell me what to do or say to her, because I want her."

BACHELOR.

I wish I knew of a sure enough answer to your question, Bachelor. If I had a love philter that would always work its magic on obdurate persons, I would make a fortune. Probably your friend was badly stung in her marriage and has made up her mind, just as she says, to have nothing more to do with men in the capacity of husband.

The only thing I can suggest is to see our letter, I am sure.

MISS LEE: When I read "Unkissable's" letter I was thrilled to know there was someone else in the world like me.

"I am of a good family and go to high school. I have a good time, but I am tired of not having company. I guess it is because I am unkissable. I am 18 and I have had but few dates. If I could meet the type of man my father likes, I should be very happy. When a boy or man gets smart around me I have been taught to give him a piece of my mind, and I do, too. Miss Lee, I don't allow them to 'pet' me like most other girls do. I have never let a boy kiss me. I don't mean to be 'stiff,' but I do mean to be respected."

"I surely would like to see 'Unkissable' and talk to her. I want her to know that 'Unkissable' is living."

Thanks, dear, don't believe all the boys' and girls' lies. The "Bad girls," I know several nice ones myself. "Unkissable" will be glad to see our letter, I am sure.

Stretching Exercises

Stretching exercises that all dancers must do systematically will harm no woman, but the woman who resents the strenuousness of them cannot be blamed.

However, much of the stiffness that accompanies age—long before real old age descends upon us—is due to the fact that we ignore nature's own way of keeping the body supple . . . stretching. All animals have grace in their movements, largely because of the frequent stretching they do every day, almost always after a rest period. Even birds stretch.

Any woman who will do stretching exercises at least once a day—exercises that do not call for over-exertion—will find that eventually she will achieve a grace of movement that will surprise her. And even girls of 18 and 20 will find it worth their while to practice the few little exercises given here.

You need not stand to do these stretching exercises. As you sit, stretch your neck forward as far as possible and hold the position for two or three minutes. Throw the head up. Hold that position a few minutes. Stretch your spine, throwing the chest forward, the head up. Hold that position two or three minutes. Stretch arms, hands, legs and feet.

These exercises practiced for a few weeks will cause the body to

HUGE SCORE ROLLED UP AGAINST ROTARY AND KIWANIS TEAM

Kimber Driven From Under Shower Of Base Hits

Speaking of these May Day riots, the Lang Chevrolet Co. softball team staged one of its own at the expense of the joint Rotary-Kiwanis nine, rolling up the highest score of the season in winning, 26 to 1 Thursday night at Cox Athletic Field.

Langs had frequent big scoring innings but their biggest was the lucky seventh, so-called, when nine markers trickled or rather streamed over the plate.

With the help of an adding machine it was ascertained the Lang collection of hits totalled twenty-two, practically all members of the team partaking of the feast of swat.

The leading wood butcher of the contest was Joe Smittle, Lang shortstop, who amassed five assorted bingles, including two blows for all the bases, a double and a brace of singles. Bell obtained four hits as did McCoy. Balder hit to safe territory twice for the losers.

Russ Kimber and Jim Stout divided the pitching burden for the Ki-Ro team and it was a burden, no mistake about that. Harry Williams started on the mound for Langs and blanked his opponents with two hits in the first four rounds. John Hurley in person hurled the last four, giving an exhibition of plain and fancy twirling, but the losers avoided a shut-out by scoring a run in the eighth and last inning as a result of a walk, fielder's choice and an error.

President Well is an observing young man. Or late he had noted that the Reds had not been getting as much distance on their drives either in games or in practice since the season opened as before the bats had a chance to absorb moisture in their dug-out cupboard. This observation led to the discovery of the possible dampness of the bats. Immediately he communicated with officials of the Louisville bat factory and was advised that a bat loses much of its driving power when it becomes damp.

We add our hope to that of Well that damp bats are at the bottom of the dismal showing of the Reds this season. However, if the change from possible damp bats to dry ones does not bring about an improvement in the club hitting power, the search for the reason the players are never able to hit as skillfully for the Reds as for other teams will be on again.

The squad of the Cincinnati baseball team must be cut to twenty-five players by June 15 and Manager Dan Howley is probably laying awake nights deciding which two players must be dropped in order that the club roster will not exceed the specified limit.

The squad was recently reduced to twenty-seven when Harry Riconda, third baseman, was released to Kansas City of the American Association. Riconda was drafted from Kansas City last fall and during the spring training season he showed marked hitting qualities. After the season opened he did not appear in any game.

The Red management was prevented from transferring his release to any other team because Kansas City claimed him in case he failed to remain in the majors. With Riconda gone, two more players must be dropped before June 15. The squad is now composed of these men:

Pitchers—Ash, Rixey, McWeeny, May, Lucas, Kolp, Johnson, Eckert, Frey, Donohue and Campbell.
Catchers—Sukeforth, Gooch and Styles.
Infielders—Durocher, Cuccinello, Drensen, Ford, Critz, Stripp and Kelly.
Outfielders—Hellmann, Walker, Allen, Meusel, Callaghan and Swanson.

SUES ESTATE FOR SUM ALLEGED DUE

Trial of the suit to recover $1,000 from the estate of Morris Lasure, deceased, as compensation for alleged services rendered the decedent after December 4, 1926 to August 14, 1927, filed in Common Pleas court by Alice N. Lasure against William S. Lasure, her husband, as administrator of the estate, was still in progress Friday. It began Thursday.

It is claimed the administrator rejected his wife's claim when it was presented to him because of a writ demand that he refuse payment under him by Ida Richardson, Ella Junkie and Morris Lasure, Jr., children of the decedent.

The plaintiff contends she nursed and cared for the decedent and performed his laundry work for him at his request.

Herbert Main will deliver the annual Cedar Day oration on the Cedarville College campus Wednesday, June 4 as one of the features of "Cedar Day" exercises and not the Rev. W. N. Mantle, of New Jasper, as was recently announced in a Cedarville College bulletin entitled "Cedarville College Cuttings," it was announced Friday.

Under a revised schedule for the county elimination series announced Friday, Bellbrook plays at Cedarville and Beaver Creek visits Spring Valley for preliminary round games Friday afternoon.

Winner of the Bellbrook-Cedarville game meets Jamestown on the Bowersville diamond next Monday, while Caesar Creek Twp., which drew a bye the first round, meets the winner of the Beaver-Spring Valley game at Caesar Creek Monday.

The Xenia, O. S. and S. O. Home is not represented in the county tourney.

The championship county final game, a regulation nine-inning contest, will be staged on the Cedarville College diamond next Wednesday. The winner will represent this county in the district baseball series at the University of Dayton Friday and Saturday of next week.

Score by innings of the semi-finals of the Greene County high school baseball elimination series by defeating Bowersville High, 11 to 10 in an eight-inning wafflet on the Leach Park diamond at Jamestown Thursday afternoon.

James, colored catcher for Jamestown, broke up the ball game in the last half of the eighth inning when he poled a tremendous home run, with two runners on base. Bowersville had previously scored twice in the first half of the eighth and seemed headed for victory. In the last half however, with a runner on first and one down, an outfielder muffed a fly with a possible double play in sight, permitting James to step to the plate and end the game then and there.

The contest was originally scheduled for only seven innings. Bowersville assumed a commanding lead by tallying seven runs in the first round but could not hold the advantage and Jamestown gradually drew up on even terms.

The rival teams were tied at 8 to 8 at the close of the seventh. Guthrie, Cline and Robinson occupied the mound successfully for Bowersville, while Sessler, relief pitcher, proved almost invincible after Taylor, starting hurler for Jamestown, was knocked out of the box.

Each team collected thirteen hits.

Under a revised schedule for the county elimination series announced Friday, Bellbrook plays at Cedarville and Beaver Creek visits Spring Valley for preliminary round games Friday afternoon.

Winner of the Bellbrook-Cedarville game meets Jamestown on the Bowersville diamond next Monday, while Caesar Creek Twp., which drew a bye the first round, meets the winner of the Beaver-Spring Valley game at Caesar Creek Monday.

The Xenia, O. S. and S. O. Home is not represented in the county tourney.

The championship county final game, a regulation nine-inning contest, will be staged on the Cedarville College diamond next Wednesday. The winner will represent this county in the district baseball series at the University of Dayton Friday and Saturday of next week.

Score by innings of the semi-finals of the Greene County high school baseball elimination series by defeating Bowersville High, 11 to 10 in an eight-inning wafflet on the Leach Park diamond at Jamestown Thursday afternoon.

James, colored catcher for Jamestown, broke up the ball game in the last half of the eighth inning when he poled a tremendous home run, with two runners on base. Bowersville had previously scored twice in the first half of the eighth and seemed headed for victory. In the last half however, with a runner on first and one down, an outfielder muffed a fly with a possible double play in sight, permitting James to step to the plate and end the game then and there.

The contest was originally scheduled for only seven innings. Bowersville assumed a commanding lead by tallying seven runs in the first round but could not hold the advantage and Jamestown gradually drew up on even terms.

The rival teams were tied at 8 to 8 at the close of the seventh. Guthrie, Cline and Robinson occupied the mound successfully for Bowersville, while Sessler, relief pitcher, proved almost invincible after Taylor, starting hurler for Jamestown, was knocked out of the box.

Each team collected thirteen hits.

Church Forum

How proceed to enlist candidates from the church as missionaries, ministers and other full time Christian workers?

Albert W. Heaven offers the following solution to this problem in a recent number of "Church Management." Every minister owes an obligation to the future in seeing that strong men enter the ministry or prepare for missionary service. Recently in visiting an outstanding pastor of my denomination, he told me that several years ago he arranged a dinner for an evening to which he invited his deacons, asking each deacon to bring as his guest one boy out of a selected list of the strongest young men of the congregation. The speaker was a great preacher and spoke to the boys on the life of service and the place of the ministry. As a result of that evening with about thirty boys, seven of them are preparing for the ministry and strong and promising young men that I used to make it a point each time I talked to a promising lad in my study to ask about his ideas of what he would like to be and to follow that by putting to him the claims of a full time Christian service. We also formed a life service league composed of those favorably considering these callings and we would gather from time to time to meet with different ministers and missionaries.

MOTIVE POWER

The late Bishop Williams of Michigan said, "If the church would fulfill its mission, it must be the home of many minds. The church is comprehensive, composed of widely different views, presumably interested in making better conditions in society, industry and politics."

"The church's business is to inspire men with such a common motive to create in them the spirit of brotherhood and service. Though men will always differ as to methods, if enough men get the right spirit, almost any method will do."

The program of human brotherhood and Christian service needs to be motivated. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

D. CARL YODER

Palm Sunday is one of the church's special days; it calls for special attention to the coming of Jesus as Saviour and King. There is a rightful place for enthusiasm and for public demonstration regarding the place and power of Jesus; it should not be spasmodic, and only for one day, but a type of a natural and continuous attitude.

V. 1. "And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and came unto Bethphage unto the Mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples."

V. 2. "Saying unto them, go ye into the village that is over against you, and straightway, ye shall find an ass tied and a colt with him; loose them and bring them unto me. An ass was an emblem of peace. Kings and princes commonly rode on them in times of peace and to ride an ass was a mark of dignity and rank.

V. 3. "And if anyone say aught unto you, ye shall say, the Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them." The anticipated objection was made and Christ's answer brought consent of the owners; here is a suggestion of readiness to yield possessions for the master's use.

Vs. 4, 5. "Now this is come to pass, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken through the prophet saying, Tell ye daughters of Zion, Behold thy king cometh unto thee, meek and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass."

Matthew writing his gospel that the Jews might believe Christ as the promised Messiah often quotes prophecy as done here, Zechariah 9:9. Zion was the hill in Jerusalem where David lived and the "daughters of Zion" was Jerusalem itself.

V. 6. "And the disciples went and did even as Jesus appointed them." A lowly task, but they rejoined in it for the rest of their lives.

V. 7. "And brought the ass, and the colt and put on them their garments; and he sat thereon." Our Lord rode on the colt; they folded up their outer garments for Christ to use as a saddle, doing this out of a profound love and respect for him.

V. 8. "And the multitude that went before him and that followed stirred, saying who is this?" There are always people who want to know the reason; Jesus is more than reason; He is a fact, and faith in Him supercedes reason.

V. 9. "And the multitude said, this is the prophet, Jesus, from Nazareth of Galilee." Wherever love and gratitude exist, where Jesus is understood and adored, festive days and moments of uplifting will come; then ways and means to praise him will be found.

V. 10. "And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was stirred, saying who is this?" There are always people who want to know the reason; Jesus is more than reason; He is a fact, and faith in Him supercedes reason.

V. 11. "And the multitude said, this is the prophet, Jesus, from Nazareth of Galilee." Wherever love and gratitude exist, where Jesus is understood and adored, festive days and moments of uplifting will come; then ways and means to praise him will be found.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

D. CARL YODER

1. Why did the crowd follow Jesus and acclaim Him King?

2. How was Jesus affected by this demonstration?

3. Why is Palm Sunday so called and what is its significance?

4. What is the kingdom of Christ?

5. How much enthusiasm should be expected in religion?

6. How may we be more enthusiastic religiously today?

7. What may we do in making Christ King?

Clericus says, "Christ's kingdom consists of righteousness and peace; it brings forgiveness, purity, brotherhood, love; it crushes all evil and is the program for the family of God; it ought to be hailed with enthusiasm and its principles practiced in every walk of life. War will cease forever when Christ's kingdom comes. The shouting should be heard today when Jesus is present."

Lesson Prayer, "We would join the multitude in proclaiming Christ Saviour and King. Give us the note of praise with a persistent enthusiasm that will not die."

"The Supreme Book of Man-kind," by McClure, Scribner's, presents the story of the growth of the English Bible, its influence in the days of Augustine, through the age of Bede and Wycliffe to the modern day.

"Charles Kellogg—The Nature Singer," by Kellogg, The Pacific Science Press, Morgan Hill, Calif. In this book Mr. Kellogg, naturalist, woodsman, rancher and artist tells of his many interesting experiences in the out of doors as a student of nature.

"Will you teach this boy to mind his mother?" asked a mother of a public school teacher recently. The teacher surprised the mother by replying "How I wish I might help you to do your part."

Beautiful behavior is not a matter of a single act, but one of habit and that calls for a program of study which ought to be pursued by parents. One of the helpful organizations of today is the Parents-Teachers association. There are many helpful books published and available for those parents wishing to make the most of their opportunity. One very helpful book is "Parents and Teachers" in which is found this paragraph: "Example or pattern is perhaps the chief factor in behavior. Desire to follow the example of some one who is loved is one of the supreme desires in all our hearts."

"Practice, repetition, is essential to habit; direction and correction secure the conscious cooperation of the obedient child; and all these are strengthened and supplemented by the habit of obedience which comes out of a controlled and thoughtful life in the home, in which the authority and leadership are centered in the conscience of the father and mother. More than half the education in behavior has been secured before the child crosses the threshold of school."

World Religious News

D. CARL YODER

The Religious Press conference was held in Washington, D. C., April 29-30. Editors of religious weeklies of all denominations discussed topics essential to the religious press.

During the thirty years that Dr. J. H. Ritsen has been secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, he has seen that 237,000,000 volumes of the Scriptures were circulated. This figure exceeds by 77,000,000 the number circulated in the previous ninety-nine years existence.

The last annual report of the Institute of International Education says there were 9685 foreign students in the United States during the academic year 1929-30. They come from more than 100 different countries or colonies. Since these students are undoubtedly the future leaders of these countries, their presence here is of great social and religious significance.

The Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry, D. D. of Rhode Island was recently elected presiding bishop of the Episcopal church in America succeeding the late Bishop Anderson. Bishop Perry is a great grand nephew of the hero of the battle of Lake Erie in 1812, Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, and was himself a chaplain in the Spanish American war. He has taken an earnest stand for labor in various strikes and labor difficulties in New England. Bishop Perry is also a zealous advocate of church unity. He acted as chief of Red Cross chaplains overseas during the World War.

Started in 1914 by the Rev. W. D. Marsh, the organization known as "The League of the Kindly Tongue" has spread over the United States and into foreign countries. It has no dues, nor by-laws or meetings. There is a simple card which members sign. It reads: "I purpose to abstain from unkind speech and as often as possible to speak in the spirit of Christ to stranger, friend or kin, words of cheer, courage or counsel." Old and young are eligible for membership. Dr. Marsh lives in Potsdam, N. Y.

COURAGE VERSUS PUBLIC OPINION

It takes courage to be true to one's ideals in an age of rather shoddy moral standards. To be sober in a society of drunkards, to be clean in an atmosphere of unwholesome thinking, to be honest in an age of cupidity, to be unselfish.

The story is told of Mr. Hoover that during the period following the World War and after prohibition had become a law in the United States, he was invited to be a guest of honor at a large banquet in London. By his side was an English woman well known for her brilliant writings. She very strongly resented the fact that when the wine was served, Mr. Hoover turned down his glass. THROUGH THE MICROPHONE

BY BROADCASTER

NEW YORK, May 1.—Here's something for persons interested in radio to think about!

The New York Board of Health has come to the rescue of those irate citizens who complain that they are annoyed by the raucous bellowing of their neighbor's radio or the loud speaker in a nearby store.

At a meeting of the Board of Health recently an amendment to the sanitary code was passed to protect the sound harassed.

This action followed several weeks of deliberation on the part of the Noise Abatement Commission as members of this body weighed the results of questionnaires and noise maps of New York made last Fall. The amendment was made on the basis of the commission's surveys and at the behest of the commission and Health Commissioner Wynne.

The abuse of loudspeakers both in stores and in homes gave rise to thirteen per cent of the complaints received by the commission. It is believed that the proportion of complaints on this score would have been even greater if the questionnaire had been issued during the summer season when windows are open and people are more intimately exposed to neighborhood noises than they are in fall or winter.

The section of the Sanitary Code reads as follows:

"Loud and excessive noises from radios, etc., prohibited. No person owning, occupying, or having charge of any building or premises or any part thereof in New York City, shall cause, suffer or allow any loud, unusual, or excessive noise in the operation or use of any radio, phonograph or other mechanical or electrical sound-making or reproducing device instrument or machine, which loud, excessive or unusual noise shall disturb the comfort, quiet or repose of persons therein or in the vicinity."

Until the passage of this section specifically prohibiting loud noise from radios and other instruments, several statutes had been more or less unsuccessfully invoked. The amendment gives New York an effective tool for securing peace.

That the radio industry is now giving some real constructive thought to service, and that this branch is to receive greater consideration this season than ever before, is the opinion of J. E. Smith, president of the National Radio Institute of Washington, D. C.

Heretofore, states this authority, the industry has been interested solely in the production of new sets. Each season has seen the industry thinking only in terms of new customers. Set owners have been forgotten. Service has been left largely to the individual dealer and jobber. In the rush to provide a seemingly unlimited market with new sets, the industry has quite logically forgotten those already sold.

But now the picture changes. There are far more sets in use today than can be sold in one year, or a couple of years. Furthermore, radio reputations are being made and broken in the field by sets in use. Radio manufacturers are coming to realize that fact, and are giving the service problem real consideration. Dealers are being instructed on how to organize and operate an efficient service staff. The flat rate system of charging for servicing, is just beginning to make its appearance. Some manufacturers are setting up regional factory service branches. Good service men are being sought—not tinkers, but men who know. Suitable test equipment is being provided. Service, is indeed, the 1930 keynote of the industry.

KIRK'S ORIGINAL COCOA HARDWATER CASTILE

A Soap For Real Boys

Here's the solution to an old problem. Don't bribe boys to wash—merely give them the modern soap that instantly bursts into millions of vigorous bubbles.

This new soap is made by a secret process from costly, mild coconut oil. Just plunge it into water—hard or soft—hot or cold—and instantly you have mountains of rich, creamy, lather!

And so gentle is this magic soap that it is soothing to delicate skin—its mild coconut oil leaves your skin silken-smooth and soft. Yet it makes short work of grimy dirt, oil and grease and removes dangerous germs.

Be modern—try this new magic soap made for busy people. Only 10c for the big white oversize cake.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Theater

In this hectic business of writing a column indefinitely and not too closely related to the drama, one thing will, in the course of events, lead to another.

Thus yesterday found us referring only slightly to Marc Connelly the writer of plays and today finds us devoting a column to this chap whose "The Green Pastures" has caused so much comment.

Marc's mother was the daughter of Marcus Carlin Cook, Boston fur dealer and father of the Greater Boston Bill, who was chagrined when he learned his daughter had run away with a small-time touring tragedian known to the theater of the hinterland as Patrick Joseph Connelly. Of this union Marcus Cook Connelly was born December 12, 1890 at McKeesport, Pa., where his father had taken over the White Hotel.

Connelly's first visit to the theater was to the Alvin in Pittsburgh where he saw Mansfield in "Cyrano de Bergerac." The Connellys arrived late and, in deference to an old showman, Mansfield ordered the second act repeated so that they would not miss too much of the show. Marc probably decided then that he would never be a Boniface.

After six years of newspaper work in Pittsburgh, Connelly went to New York in 1916 with "The Amber Express" a musical comedy for which he had written the lyrics. Early in his Gotham days he roomed with John Held Jr., the artist and Mahonri Young, the sculptor in what they were pleased to refer to as The Cockroach Glades.

Marc was writing a dramatic column for the "Garment News" when he formed his play-writing alliance with George S. Kaufman, then critic for the Times. Their first play turned out to be a merry piece called "Daley" which recently amused patrons of the Xenia Little Theater Guild.

Their collaboration continued with "To The Ladies," "Merton of the Movies" and "Beggar on Horseback" after which, although apparently amiable, they separated. "The Green Pastures," based on Negro stories from Roark Bradford's celebrated yarns, although it has taken the critics and the public by storm, was very obviously refused by many sources.

Through the efforts of County Auditor Walter L. Dean, the appraisal of the Cincinnati and Springfield division of the Big Four railroad was increased $500 a mile at the meeting of auditors of the various counties through which the road passes, held in Cincinnati, Tuesday.

A very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hornick, in Waynesville, Monday, when they celebrated their fifteenth or crystal wedding anniversary.

A stock company, comprised of Springfield Valley business men, is at the back of a canning industry about to be opened in the village, and for which a factory is being built.

CHAPTER XLVII

In the morning the program director of WWBC called Elanda. He was very businesslike as usual.

"Miss Lee, do you know Suwanee Collier's new number 'I Dreamed For a Day'?"

"I certainly ought to—it's all anybody ever sings anymore," she laughed nervously. "Why?"

"We've changed our program for the La Paloma Hour tonight. We want you to do it instead of 'Making Love While the Moon Shines'."

Elanda gritted her teeth. "Very well, I'll get it and practice. I haven't it."

She hung the receiver up with a bang. She didn't know why—but it made her very angry. Having to sing Suwanee's song—after he had told her she was aiming too high with her opera. It was certainly sick in her sweet, pouting mouth.

Dixie was sleepy-eyed. She informed Elanda happily that she hadn't gotten in till five o'clock.

"Bang was home snoring blissfully. He hadn't any idea what time I got back," she winked gleefully. "The old stick-in-the-mud."

Elanda flared up at her. "Most women would be glad if they had a good husband who was a decent father to his children. You may, too, when it's too late!"

"Apple soup!" Dixie kicked off one of her mules. "Wow! I sure did dance a fine blister on my heel, Landa!"

"Too bad you didn't break a leg!" Elanda snapped and picked up her hat to go to the station and rehearse Suwanee's song.

In the late afternoon she came back home to dress. She put on an all gold-cloth evening gown short in front, revealing her dainty legs—and long in the back. She had a wrap to match. Elanda had plenty of money to spend on clothes. And she spared nothing to make herself attractive.

All the way back to the studio in the taxi she pouted. Because she had to sing that darned song! Everywhere she turned she saw Suwanee's picture. The papers were hailing him as the new "king of song composers." It didn't go so well—since she had scorned him and called him a "mere ukelele player." There was more to him than her diagnosis, after all.

When she arrived she met Suwanee coming in with a woman. She never had seen him so that Suwanee would not see, Elanda took a look at the woman.

She was tall and sleek-haired—a raving beauty. And her gown was Paris itself. It was as black and shiny as her sleek, crow-shed hair. She was laden with emeralds that seemed to send sparks from her slanted green eyes.

She looked at Suwanee adoringly—and Elanda thought it was silly for a girl to do that in public! When she spoke her voice held a faint cosmopolitan accent:

"It's rathaw sweet of you, Suwanee, to bring me to your workshop. I've always wanted to come."

And he had answered with a low, pleased laugh: "I had no idea you'd care to come, Camilla."

Camilla! Camilla! Elanda stole another look at her and her heart skipped a beat. It was Camilla Barry! The biggest stage light on Broadway. Oh! Elanda sat down and felt very meek. The musicians tuning their instruments beat in on her confused thoughts.

The greatest celebrity of them all called Suwanee by his first name! And she had known him quite a while—and he called her Camilla. Elanda's cheeks burned. She pretended not to notice the couple—and made up her mind she wouldn't let Suwanee know she was aware that he was there.

But in a little while the sophisticated darling of the footlights asked in her thrilling contralto, musically:

"Whoever is the darling child with the carrot hair?"

She had no idea Elanda could hear her. But Elanda much against her will, was making a particular effort to hear what they were talking about—and her cheeks grew pink.

In a second Suwanee came to her chair.

"Hello, Elanda! I'd like you to come back and meet Camilla Barry. She asked who you were."

Elanda, with her knees weakening, patted a smile on her face and got up. When they had been introduced Camilla waved her jeweled hand for Elanda to sit beside her.

"And what do you do here, little carrot-top? You don't mind if I call you that, do you? It's one of my pet names for red-headed people I like. I'm crazy about carrots, too."

Elanda was crushed with a feeling of her own inferiority. But she managed another smile. Suwanee answered for her.

"Miss Lee is the star of the show tonight. She is Miss La Paloma, herself."

"Oh, how perfectly adorable," Barry cooed amusedly. "I'm sure it must be loads of fun. How nice to be called a dove." She turned to Suwanee and put her hand on his sleeve.

"What kind of a bird would I be, darling—an ole crow, with my black hair?"

Suwanee smiled into her limpid green eyes:

"A bird of paradise, Camilla."

The actress gave a musical laugh and seemed well pleased with herself. Elanda was thankful when the program began and they could do no more talking. She smiled at Camilla and Suwanee now and then and tried to look at ease. Shortly Suwanee was announced.

He sang his newest composition: "Down On My Old Suwanee Shore."

It was a beautiful, dreamy melody, and he crooned it softly, standing close to the "mike." His studio auditors had to lean over to catch the words. He accompanied himself on his ukelele. Camilla devoured him with her eyes and whispered discreetly to Elanda:

"Did you ever hear anyone so clever?"

Elanda nodded that she hadn't. What else could she say? Then the announcer told them that Miss La Paloma was going to sing Mr. Collier's big hit, "I Dreamed For a Day."

Elanda longed to ruin the number. But she didn't dare. So she gave it her best. Her voice held a sweet, plaintive longing as she sang in her rich mezzo:

"I built a little dream house, with roses round the door.
A cozy little dream house, with toys on the floor—"

But my little dream house is empty and gray.
Gone with my dream of a day."

Suwanee gripped his hands while she sang. His heart pounded until he was afraid Camilla would hear it. Elanda never had sung like that before. The song was made for her. When she came back he reached out and shook her hand, his eyes shining.

In two minutes every telephone line at WWBC was tied up. And because something had to be done about it, a note was sent in from Fiske to the announcer. It was short. But what it was going to mean to Elanda Lee only the fates knew.

It read: "Please have Miss Lee sing 'I Dreamed For a Day' again. Dozens of request calls."
